Soroptimists crown Cheyenne

Cheyenne Hobler smiles as she is crowned the 2013 Five-State Fair Queen Saturday evening by the Soroptimist Club at the Impromptu prior to the opening night of the stock car races, which will conclude tonight with the fair champions being determined. Hobler is very familiar with the fair queen duties, as she was involved with 4-H for years and always participated in the fair. For more photos of days two and three of the fair, see PAGE 4. If you hold to there will come. This maybe the mantra of one of the greatest baseball movies of all time, "Field Of Dreams," but it's also the mantra of Texas-born, Kansas-raised Casey Donahew.

The Texas-born native has patiently waited out an impressive rise for himself on the country music scene, and he is now poised to attracting a solid base of loyal fans who flock to his legendary live shows.

Making his center from the Texas Panhandle to Texas A&M, he managed to perform on countless stages night after night in front of thousands of fans. His recorded charts several times, released four albums independently to critical acclaim, and he has built a loyal fan base through his tireless

Joe Hibbert began building cars at the age of 11 helping his neighbor stay racing. At 14, he talked his parents into letting him drive.

Now, he can be built from a 1954 Chevy Bone Yard, and he would have built a 1956.

That type of cars would eventually lead Hibbert to running a demolition derby at Grant County. Also an owner of Rush Inc. started Outlaw Promotions, he is the promoter of the demolition derby at the fair.

Hibbert said the reason he started promoting was that he's been racing. "Increasing of age" to drive, and "I wanted them to have safe drivers to

"I was asked to do other county derbies," he said on the Web site, outlaw-
