Man faces sexual misconduct with child charges

By LARRY PHILLIPS
• Leader & Times

A Liberal man who was living with his wife in Texas has been ordered to finally finish arrangements on charges allegedly committed in Japan of sexual abuse.

Billy Brown had originally been charged with five counts of aggravated indecent liberties with a child and one count of battery of a child, two counts of aggravated criminal sodomy, one count of lewd and lascivious behavior, one count of sexual exploitation of a child under 16 and five counts of aggravated sexualized [illegible]

[illegible] to the [illegible]

[illegible] arrangement was scheduled on Oct. 15, 2013, in Seward County District Court, but it has been delayed since.

Brown is in Texas, and he was to be arraigned at a preliminary hearing on March 7, according to Seward County District Court records.

"We were bound over for extending except one count of indecent liberties with a child," Scott said. "He was bound over on three other counts."

Scott is the public defender of Brown's hearing on March 7.

Car seats save lives

By ROBERT PRICE
• Leader & Times

Every year, children across the country are killed or injured in vehicle crashes. Proper Kansas believes many of these lives could be saved by simply strictly buckling the kid into a car seat.

Horner is a traffic safety specialist with the Kansas Traffic Safety Resource Office, a program of the Kansas Department of Transportation, and she, along with area authorities, spent the last three days helping train people on how to properly install car seats in vehicles.

"We just had a class here in Liberal for people who wanted to Nationally Certified Car Seat Technicians," she said. "They get certified with Safe Kids Worldwide. They are what we call an inst expert."

Horner said this course the people in the class can now provide education and information to the public on car seat safety.

"Anybody who has a car seat can call them questions," she said.

Horner said the Liberal Police took part in the fun way to be learning car seat technicians, a check lane in north Liberal where officers checked for safety standards and children with car seats.

Horner's agency led the class, and she had the help of Liberal Police Department officers and the Kansas Highway Patrol. Six officers participated in the class itself, many

Paul McCartney plans June performance in Lubbock, Texas

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Lubbock and Texas Tech officials are hoping to bring Paul McCartney to the Hub City for a June 14 performance at the West Texas city's Jones AT&T Lubbock. Mayor Glen Robertson said at a news conference Wednesday announcing the concert that McCartney reached out to ask to play in Buddy Holly's hometown.

It will be McCartney's first appearance in Lubbock. He has said Holly influenced the music of The Beatles and was a hero to the band.

The Grammy-winning singer-songwriter's concert will be at Clifford Smith Arena on the university's campus.

Tickets go on sale Friday at noon. Tickets for the show will cost the U.S. legend Eric Lehmann's Tour Passes would issue 10-40 plus the American Airlines Center in Dallas two nights later.

Officials say Lubbock and the university worked together to bring the show to the city.

Miss Kansas to host show for Outdoors Channel

By MICHAEL PEARCE
• Wichita Eagle

CHASE COUNTY (AP) — Theresa Vail, who has included a lot of exercise and fashionable clothing since she won the Miss Kansas crown, will be in Kansas recently get a look at a future that will contain more of the same when she hosts a television show.

Even then so, though, the exercise will be welcoming her to horses and other outdoor activities. Vail will host a television show for Outdoor Channel next year. The clothing will be more outdoorsy than fashion. Vail, the 2012 winner, celebrated her Miss Kansas crown beyond expectations. Vail has been hired to promote and help design.

Vail was in Chase County for the show taping at the Cottonwood Valley Front in El Dorado. The show was taped Friday. Vail was in Kansas for a few days, which she's done now 20 minutes into the hand Friday morning.

Vail was in Kansas for a few days, looking at her three of hunting, fishing and hot camer in the Kansas Area National Guard. She gained notoriety when she was crowned and announced she would not wear her tiara in the Miss America competition in Atlantic City last September.

Vail, who is from Fort Worth, Texas, character and Clemson native of Kansas, Texas, realized that her career goal of hosting a television show. Vail was hired when the Outdoor Channel called to talk about her possibly hosting a television show.

"I told them I didn't want to do what everybody else was doing and they said they wanted to do something different," a Beach from Fredrick Sam. "We really wanted it to have more than just me on camera. It's a lot of hunting."

She had gotten a taste of outdoors television in late December, when she was a guest on a Texas Outdoors show. Vail is an artistic shot hunter and Purple Heart hard, and she wrote Vail and Outdoors Channel. Vail, who is a Texas native, reunited with her New Hampshire Outdoors hunt, got a hold of Outdoors Channel's number and called to talk to Outdoors.

"She was absolutely energized two years ago when she was at a meeting with Outdoors Channel. She was trying to reach people that saw the things outside that couldn't come to fruition in themselves. They'd see when the show begins to air."

Vail said about half of each segment will be based on hunting, mostly with archery gear. The rest will be about a variety of outdoor activities, such as dog sledding with Olympic silver medalist Jeff Ivy, for depicting a day training with the Kansas Area National Guard.

"You have 200 pounds of gear on, and you're running up and down mountains, and you're shooting a rifle," she said. "It's going to be pretty tough, but I think we'll do a lot of that."

Vail said she has been training for a cycling event that is a marathon in New Mexico that honors soldiers from the Iraqi and Afghan wars. Vail said that the recently hosted several engaged conversations at the event, which is held in Albuquerque, N.M., and she wants to Vail entered 40 pounds on a military kit competed in the event's longhaul [illegible].

Vail also wants to be as hardcore as possible in her hunts that will be held at Kansas Area National Guard facilities and usually last four to five days. Even more, she'll be training in dog sledding and packing out loads of meat [illegible].

"I thought a longtime hunter, she admits she does have plenty to learn.

"I'm not afraid to say, 'Hey, I don't know how to do this,' and I'm not afraid to learn and to myself," she said. "That's empowering and even people need to hear that. I'm not afraid to say I'm afraid to go on the down a mountain, but I will learn how and that's the kind of thing I want to show people."

While training her hunt with guide Pat Hart, father and two cameramen Vail was in Kansas for a few days.

Hart's training had found where a sizable flock of turkeys was roosting in a tree. Vail, who is a hunter, was in a gorgeous Blue Silk stream. The size of the mound close to the tree which Vail was in, Hart said, was still an with [illegible] of gobbles.

Hart then directed toward Hart's mechanical assistance toward Vail's gun to call. Vail, when she pulled the trigger, Using the sound of her duck call, Hart, in her scope, she quickly [illegible] a gobble and killed a nice tom the ends.

Vail's hunt was also hosted by Bass Pro Shops for unarmed company promo-
