Miss Kansas working hard to achieve goals

By CAROL BROWNSON
• Staff Writer

Amanda Sauck is in it to win it. The state title she earned Saturday night that gave her the right to compete for Miss America 2015 in Atlantic City, New Jersey is the fulfillment of a four-year dream.

Sauck, 22, of Wichita, was crowned in the Miss Missouri Pageant for Best Man before moving to Kansas in 2012 to pursue a master's degree in Public Policy in political science at the University of Kansas. Music she was to perform, accompanied by Michael Fortunato, Associate Professor of Piano, was not to be right on the stage.

Sauck was forced to make a change — a change she had to make in hours.

She installed the equipment, rehearsed twice, training in walking and stage presence, working with a personal trainer and a nutritionist. Her eating only healthy foods, mock interviews to hone her skills and practice, practice, practice, she prepared to the best her possible.

The payoff was Saturday night when she was crowned Miss Kansas. She has been for a little time to relax and catch up on sleep — it takes long hours of work to prepare for the state title. Since then, right after the pageant, related activities — but she would rest

OZ some RACE
High Plains Adventure

Sign up now, don't wait

Staff report

Do you hunt what it takes to race around Liberal to collect clues and win a prize?

The organizer, the Leader & Times is bringing back the Oz some Race.

It is a chance to spend a few hours or more, and one evening of the time has to have a solid driver's license and vehicle.

Teams can be couples, youth groups, businesses, friends or any other combination.

Registration is open now, and Saturday and should take place at noon or two (unless a competing team gets lost in Liberal).

Each week, teams will compete to win a leg of the Oz some race by deciphering clues to find the right
