

A triceratops makes its way through the Mid-America Air Museum Monday afternoon after it got away from handlers when it was delivered to the museum. Dinosaur wranglers finally got it corralled and placed in the area where the new dinosaur exhibit opens this weekend, and numerous animatronic creatures will be on display. Be sure to be at the museum at 10 a.m. Saturday for the opening. L&T photo/Chris Linenbroker