- L&T staff report

At the Choctaw Nation Health Care Center in Talihina, Okla., patients in the tobacco cessation clinic receive a combination of medication and follow-up counseling, leading to a high success rate.

The accomplishment comes from the work of Dr. Randy Steers, a graduate of Turpin High School, who implemented the clinic while a post-doctoral resident at the clinic. Steers, a commissioned officer in the U.S. Public Health Service, has built on that success in both professional and patient care capacities at the health center.
