Seward County sophomore Latiq Agard has been named the Jayhawk Conference Player of the Week after his performance in a 2-1 week for the Saints.

Agard continued to be the model of consistency for the Saints averaging 18 points per game, just above his season average.

His best game of the week came against Colby when he scored 24 points on eight of 15 shooting to help Seward to a last-second win over the Trojans.

He shot 54 percent on the week in the three games and found his way to the free throw line 25 times with his hard work inside.

Agard and his Saints will travel to Cloud County to play one of the conference's hottest teams Saturday night.
