The Cardinals are one game away from a perfect regular season after knocking off the A's, 10-0 Thursday at Rosemead Field.

The Cardinals put their hard throwing right hander, Syris Dunlap, on the mound, and the A's went down in order for the first three innings.

The A's kept the Cardinals from big innings, but the Cardinals were able to push three runs across the plate in the first, two more in the second, three more in the third and two more in the fourth.

The Cardinals (9-0) will face the Royals (2-7) at 7:30 p.m. tonight to try to complete a perfect season.
