"If you want to help your fellow man, you have to keep straight in your mind."

Seward County Undersheriff Gene Austin has seen a little bit of everything in his 44-year career in law enforcement. Strike, thefts, crime, punishment, the growth of Liberal and the changes in the world and behavior in may just about the same no matter how much society changes. One thing will be different after this week, though, as

Hugoton super.: 'ACLU bullying district'

Civil liberties group responds documents on school assemblies with speaker from Creation Truth Foundation

By CELIA LOWENSTEIN
• Opinion Editor/Journal

Unsatisfied with a Hugoton Unified School District 210 decision to let school creation-espousing a motivational speaker, a civil liberties group is pressing public records from the district.

Hugoton Unified School District 210 hosted Kent Hovind, a Pensacola-based Creationist Truth Foundation to speak at three school assemblies this week on the topic of dinosaurs.

The ACLU of Kansas and Western Missouri protested, calling Hovind's presence unconstitutional.

Hugoton superintendent Mark Crawford said the events, which took place Monday and Tuesday, were not sponsored by the district. But ACLU had sought to intimidate the district into canceling them.

Hovind, who is a former teacher of Pensacola Christian College in Florida, founded the Creation Truth Foundation in 1989. He is known for his anti-evolution "how to handle a bully" discussions with Hitler personified as the bully.

"I'm happy Hovind didn't think like a paleontologist — how many are going to be eaten by dinosaurs," Crawford said of the assemblies.

Crawford said the district had nothing to hide, and would fulfill the ACLU's request for records.

"We've had to create any rentals between district staff and employees of the creationist organization," he said. "There's no assemblies, agreements between the two parties, and other documents."

City to close Light Park Sunday for Sampler Festival prep

• The eLibrary

Due to the large volume of work needed to be done in Light Park leading up to the Kansas Sampler Festival, the portion of Light Park inside the orange fencing will be closed to the public from Sunday through Friday, May 5.

The Light park and the amphitheater will be closed to rentals the hours will be available for use.

"I am aware if the inconvenience the closure of our community fest hopes they will realize it is necessary so we can prepare to host one of the largest traveling festivals in the state for the next week," Seward County Parks Committee and Chairman Ramon Austin retires. Crawshaw and friends have planned a reception to honor his many years of service to Liberal and the county.

"If you want to help your fellow man, you have to keep straight in your mind," he said.

"I grew up in Lemar, Colo., where my dad was part of the volunteer sheriff's reserve. I was 16 years old when I went to work for the sheriff's department. And I'd come by on hours and have coffee with my dad, and I was always at the time I was basically raised that way."

Theatre for Lovers of Drama

Broadway has a long tradition of producing musical theatre, and it's definitely not vanishing. The camp is celebrating 20 years, and for fifth at Seward County Community College/Area Technical School. The camp is open to students in grades 1 through 12 and performs a full-scale Broadway musical in just week's time.

This year's one-of-a-kind cast is "Cinderella" will be July 29-31. Campers can attend one or both camps. Each camp will include daily theatre activities, campers, rehearsals and performances in the Showcase Theatre at SCCC/ASTC. Students attending the Theatre Camp will be auditioned with the Seward County Community Theatre production of "Cinderella" on July 29-31.

Directing the camp is Performing Arts Director at SCCC/ASTC.

"Theatre Camp is for those who want to establish a good and get all of their energy into working their good performance and teaching organization to the camp.

"Cinderella" is produced through arrangement with MTI.
