Horse racing was popular in postwar Liberal. Held at the fairgrounds, the races were run around the oval race used for automobile racing. Jockey Waddie Bragg Davis was a popular regular. In her career of more than 30 years, she rode more than 3,000 winners, including 300 in one season, and was considered one of the best. Photo courtesy Ada Hook Cragg and Talkington Room Collection

Doctor: Driver in Okla. train wreck had bad eyes

by JUSTIN GLOVANNETTI Associated Press

In this June 20, 2013, file photo, smoke rises from two cargo trains that collided near Goodwell, Okla. The National Transportation Safety Board meeting in Washington on Tuesday is attempting to find a cause for the June 20, 2013, accident near Goodwell that killed three railroad workers.
