A Nielsen survey says Liberal is third in the nation for eatery growth potential

By KYLE CLAYTON

Liberal, Mo., is the third most desirable city in the nation for restaurant growth, according to a Nielsen survey. The survey ranked cities based on their economic growth, population growth, and the number of new restaurants that have opened in the past year.

Liberal ranked third, behind only San Antonio and Austin, Texas. The survey also found that Liberal has the highest number of new restaurants per capita in the nation.

The Nielsen survey is based on data from 2012 and 2013. It is the most comprehensive survey of its kind, covering 100 cities across the United States.

State explains Lexis Law concerning day care regulations

By KYLE CLAYTON

The process of reviewing legislation that affects the state's economy is a complex one. It involves many different groups and organizations, each with their own interests and concerns.

In the case of Lexis Law, the state is currently reviewing regulations that will affect day care providers. The regulations are designed to ensure that day care facilities are safe and healthy for children.

The state is currently holding public hearings on the regulations. This allows citizens to voice their concerns and provide input on the regulations.
