Elkhart authorities investigate propane blast

Elkhart authorities investigate propane blast
By STEVEN COVATTA
Elkhart, N.J. — A propane gas cylinder exploded in a storage yard in Elkhart Tuesday, causing a fire that burned for hours and damaged several buildings. The fire was caused by a propane gas cylinder that had been damaged by a truck accident. The fire was contained by firefighters from the Elkhart Fire Department and the New Jersey State Fire Academy. The cause of the explosion is still under investigation.

Some residents will no longer be eligible for transportation services
By STEVEN COVATTA
Elkhart, N.J. — The Elkhart Transit Authority has announced that it will no longer provide transportation services for some residents who are currently receiving them. The change is due to a new state law that requires transit agencies to only provide services to those who are unable to use public transportation on their own. This will affect some elderly and disabled residents who currently rely on the transit authority for their transportation needs.
