

Just enough exercise, just missing my lock?
Shower Strenuous exercise Home of the BIG WEEKEND!
KA Village Plaza & Library, 343 S. 2nd St., Lawrence, KS 66044-2026-4630 Monday - Saturday
1100 S. Broadway, 2nd floor, Lawrence, KS 66044-2026-4630

How steady is your shot?

4.5 YEARS
Judge sentences Albert Greenon, 73, for poe-growing operation Page 3A

City to purchase new Jaws of Life

Concerned parents and educators discuss pros and cons of competency-based grading being implemented at LHS. Page 6A

Liberal

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10, 2013

LEADER & TIMES

Your daily source of news for 127 years

Hunter Education

Class being offered for those seeking to earn a hunter safety cert. Page 3A

Appeals court won't stop Keystone in Okla., Texas

OKLAHOOMA CITY, Okla. — A federal appeals court Wednesday rejected a bid to stop the construction of the Keystone pipeline through Oklahoma and Texas.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit in Denver, Colo., ruled 10-5 against a coalition of environmental and conservation groups that sought to halt the pipeline's construction in Oklahoma and Texas.

The court's decision is a major setback for the coalition, which has spent millions of dollars in litigation to challenge the pipeline's construction. The coalition argued that the pipeline's construction would violate the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) and the Endangered Species Act.

The coalition also argued that the pipeline's construction would violate the National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA) and the National Antiquities Act. The court rejected these arguments, finding that the pipeline's construction would not violate any of these laws.

The court also rejected the coalition's claim that the pipeline's construction would violate the National Air Quality Act (NAQA). The court found that the pipeline's construction would not violate NAQA because it would not emit significant amounts of air pollution.

The coalition has filed a petition for rehearing with the court, but the court is expected to deny it. The coalition is also planning to appeal the court's decision to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Kansas to stop using federal food stamp grant

TOPEKA, Kan. — Kansas will stop using a federal grant to fund its Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) starting next month.

The state will instead use federal food stamp dollars to fund SNAP. This change is part of a larger effort to streamline the state's budget and reduce costs.

The state will also be able to use the federal food stamp dollars for other purposes, such as funding job training and education programs. This change is expected to save the state about $50 million per year.

Fossil hunter wants Kansas state fossil

TOPEKA, Kan. — A Lawrence resident has been named as the state fossil of Kansas.

The fossil is a 250-million-year-old dinosaur fossil, known as the Lawrence Dinosaur. It was discovered by Paul Hunter in 1998. The fossil is a partial skeleton of a dinosaur, and it is the only dinosaur fossil ever found in Lawrence, Kan.

The fossil is now housed at the Lawrence Museum of Natural History. It is a significant discovery because it is the only dinosaur fossil ever found in Lawrence, Kan. It is also one of the few dinosaur fossils ever found in the state of Kansas.