As the sun glimmers over a peaceful, idyllic scene in a park, a young boy with a cast on his arm sits on a bench, looking thoughtful. He is surrounded by other children, some of whom are also on casts. The scene is a stark contrast to the headlines that have recently dominated the news: the deaths of two young boys in a swimming pool, the death of a young girl in a bathtub, and the death of a young boy in a swimming pool. By JAMES WATSON
WELLS RICHES, Fla. — A 12-year-old girl's suicide in a small town in Florida has led to the arrest of two juveniles in the state's largest city. The girl, who was bullied for years, died by suicide in a bathtub. The two juveniles, who were 15 and 16 years old, were charged with first-degree murder and child abuse. The case has drawn national attention and has led to a renewed focus on bullying prevention in schools.
