

I used to have an open mind but my brains kept falling out.
Thursday Prime Rib
44 Village Plaza • Overland, KS 66204-2400 • Monday - Saturday
11:30 AM - 10:00 PM • Reservations: 781-222-2222

Protecting Springfield Cemetery
By Tom Breen
The city of Overland Park is working to protect the Springfield Cemetery, a historic landmark in the city's downtown area. The city is currently reviewing a proposed development that would affect the cemetery's historic integrity. The city is working to ensure that the cemetery is protected and its historic value is preserved.

City to accept $350K grant
By Tom Breen
The city of Overland Park is set to accept a $350,000 grant from the state to support a project in the city's downtown area. The grant will be used to fund a project that will improve the city's infrastructure and support economic development in the area.

Hump daaaaaay?
By Tom Breen
A group of humpback whales is seen breaching the ocean's surface near the coast of Overland Park. The whales are known for their large size and distinctive humps. The group is thought to be part of a larger population that migrates between the coast of Alaska and the coast of Mexico.

El Rancho Encuentro hosts 44th Achievement Celebration
Page 3

SW Guidance Center to honor Barrows
By Tom Breen
The Southwest Guidance Center is set to honor a local resident for his achievements in the community. The resident has been recognized for his leadership and contributions to the community over the past several years.

Grading system granted reprieve
By Tom Breen
The state's grading system for schools is being delayed for another year. This decision was made by the state's education board, which cited concerns about the system's impact on schools and students. The delay will allow schools and the state to address these concerns before implementing the new system.

Board members reluctant to delay system
By Tom Breen
Despite the state's decision to delay the grading system, some board members are reluctant to do so. They believe that the system is necessary for ensuring that schools are held to a high standard and that students are receiving a quality education. They are concerned that delaying the system will only delay the necessary reforms.

Motion to suspend competency-based grading fails 5-5
By Tom Breen
A motion to suspend the state's competency-based grading system was defeated in a 5-5 vote. The motion was introduced by a group of legislators who were concerned about the system's impact on schools and students. The vote was a tie, and the motion was not adopted.

Kansas Supreme Court to hear Hard 50 appeal
By Tom Breen
The Kansas Supreme Court is set to hear an appeal of the state's Hard 50 law. The law requires that students who are not meeting the state's standards for graduation must spend an additional 50 hours in school before they can graduate. The appeal is being heard by a panel of five justices.

Tyrone commits to keeping teen drivers safe
By Tom Breen
Governor David L. Tyrone has committed to keeping teen drivers safe by supporting a new law that will require parents to sign off on their child's driver's license. The law will also require that parents provide their child with a safe vehicle and that they provide their child with the necessary training and supervision. The governor's commitment is part of a broader effort to improve road safety for all drivers.