Local Facebook post asks to adopt or buy a baby
A local Facebook post asking for help in finding a baby for adoption or purchase has sparked a heated debate in the community. The post, which was posted by a user named 'Baby for Sale', asked if anyone knew of anyone who was willing to adopt or buy a baby. The post was quickly removed by Facebook, but it had already spread to other social media platforms. The community is divided on the issue, with some people supporting the idea and others condemning it as unethical and potentially illegal.

Lawyers seek dismissal of Kansas murder charge
A Kansas man's lawyers are seeking the dismissal of a murder charge against him. The man, who is currently in custody, was charged with the murder of a woman in a small town in Kansas. The lawyers argue that the evidence against their client is circumstantial and that the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt. They are also arguing that the state's case is based on hearsay and that the man's confession was coerced. The case is currently in the state court system, and the lawyers are hoping for a favorable ruling from the judge.

Maybe Nov. 30 before healthcare.gov is fixed
The Obama administration says it may not be able to launch the new health care website, healthcare.gov, until after Nov. 30. The website is intended to allow Americans to compare health insurance plans and purchase them online. However, the website has been plagued by technical problems since it was first launched in September. The administration is working to fix these problems as quickly as possible, but it is unclear when the website will be fully operational. Some critics are concerned that the delay will prevent Americans from making informed decisions about their health insurance coverage.

Kan. woman dies after vehicle stalls on interstate
A Kansas woman died after her vehicle stalled on Interstate 70. The woman, who was driving alone, was found by a passerby who called 911. The police arrived at the scene and found the woman unresponsive. She was pronounced dead at the hospital. The cause of the accident is still under investigation, but it is believed that the woman may have been tired or distracted. The incident has raised concerns about the safety of long-distance travel on interstate highways.

Food stamps, milk prices on table in farm talks
Farmers and food processors are meeting to discuss issues related to food stamps and milk prices. The meeting is part of a series of discussions between the two groups, which are often at odds over issues related to agriculture and food production. The farmers are concerned about the impact of food stamps on the market for their products, while the food processors are concerned about the impact of milk prices on their business. The meeting is expected to be a productive one, with both groups agreeing to work together to find solutions to these issues.
