County will hear restricting plans of election officials
Restricting to meet population growth, shifts
A special election to restrict the number of election officials in Seward County is set for Nov. 19. The election is being held because the current number of election officials is no longer sufficient to handle the county's growing population and the increasing number of election events. The county board will hear plans from the candidates to restrict the number of election officials to a maximum of 10. The candidates are: [Name], [Name], [Name], [Name], [Name], [Name], [Name], [Name], [Name], [Name].

Ohio zoo using beagle to detect bear pregnancies
A beagle named "Beagle" is being used by the Ohio State University Wexner Medical Center's Columbus Zoo and Aquarium to detect pregnancies in black bears. The beagle is trained to sniff out the scent of urine from pregnant bears. The zookeepers use the beagle's findings to determine when to collect urine samples for testing. The beagle is also used to detect other scents, such as the scent of a dead animal.

Ancient mammal named after KU prof
A new species of ancient mammal has been named after a University of Kansas professor. The fossil, which is a molar tooth, was discovered in the same location as the fossil of the ancient mammal. The fossil is named after Professor [Name], who has been studying the evolution of mammals for many years. The fossil is the oldest of its kind ever discovered in North America.
