Asian nations dominate international test

By AP/WIDEWORLD
WASHINGTON (AP) — Asian nations dominated an international test of mathematics and science, with South Korea and Singapore leading the pack. The results were announced Tuesday by the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD). Singapore topped the list with a score of 554, followed by South Korea at 553. The United States ranked 25th with a score of 487. The test, known as PISA, is designed to assess the ability of 15-year-olds to apply their knowledge in real-world situations. It is the first time that the United States has participated in the test since 2006. The results show that the United States is lagging behind other developed nations in mathematics and science. The OECD said that the United States needs to improve its education system to keep up with the global economy. The test is a key indicator of a country's economic competitiveness. The results will be used by governments to guide their education policies. The OECD said that the United States needs to focus on improving the quality of its education, particularly in mathematics and science.
