Asian nations dominate international test

BY JEFFREY HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP) — Asian nations dominated an international test of mathematics and science skills, with South Korea and Singapore leading the way. The results of the 2012 Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA) were announced Tuesday by the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD).

South Korea topped the list in mathematics, scoring an average of 554 points, followed by Singapore at 553. The United States scored 489, which is about the same as the average for all countries. In science, Singapore led with 561 points, followed by South Korea at 554. The United States scored 492.

The PISA test is a standardized test that is given to 15-year-old students in 72 countries. It is designed to measure the ability of students to apply their knowledge and skills to solve real-world problems. The test is given every three years.
