City to hear concealed carry proposal for city buildings
By JESSICA HARRINGTON
The city council will hear a proposal for a concealed carry ordinance for city buildings on Tuesday, Dec. 10, at 7 p.m. in the city council chamber. The ordinance would allow licensed carry holders to carry a handgun in city buildings, including city offices, libraries, and community centers. The ordinance would also require the city to provide training for city employees on how to handle a concealed carry holder. The ordinance is being introduced by Councilman Tom DeWitt.

Plans offer array of options
We need people to tell us what they want

The district is also looking for input on how to improve its communication with the community.

Cosmosphere hires expert to help attendance
By JESSICA HARRINGTON
Cosmosphere has hired a new expert to help improve attendance. The expert, Dr. John Hattie, is a leading authority on what works in education. He will be working with the district to identify the most effective practices for improving attendance. Hattie's research shows that the most effective practices for improving attendance are: setting clear expectations, providing regular feedback, and using a variety of assessment methods. Hattie will be working with the district to develop a plan to implement these practices.

ObamaCare exchanges limit access to top hospitals, medical centers
By JESSICA HARRINGTON
The passage of the Affordable Care Act has led to a number of changes in the health insurance market. One of the most significant changes is the creation of health insurance exchanges. These exchanges are designed to provide a marketplace where individuals can purchase health insurance. However, there have been concerns that the exchanges will limit access to top hospitals and medical centers. This is because the exchanges are required to cover only qualified health plans, which are typically offered by large employers. This means that individuals who are not covered by a large employer may have difficulty finding a qualified health plan that covers them. This could result in a loss of access to top hospitals and medical centers for these individuals.

Sebelius finalist for Time Person of Year
By JESSICA HARRINGTON
Kathleen Sebelius has been named a finalist for Time magazine's Person of the Year award. Sebelius is the current Secretary of Health and Human Services. She was named a finalist for her leadership in the Affordable Care Act. Sebelius was one of the most prominent figures in the health care reform movement. She has been a vocal advocate for the Act and has worked to ensure its successful implementation. Sebelius's nomination is a testament to her leadership and the impact of the Affordable Care Act.
