Board contemplates worst-case scenario

If bond fails, how will USD 480 cope?

By David K. Rasmussen

It's a question that has been asked many times before, but it's one that's being asked again in a new context. The Board of Directors of the University of Utah is expected to meet on Monday to discuss the possibility of a bond issue that would allow the university to raise $480 million to help pay for the construction of a new stadium for the Utah football team. The stadium is expected to be completed in 2017. The bond issue would be used to pay for the stadium and other construction projects. The Board is expected to vote on whether to issue the bond. If the bond is issued, the university will have to pay back the $480 million over a period of 30 years.
