Las Vegas cab driver finds $300K in back seat

City approves new plan allowing city staff to also have concealed-carry rights

Monday night on a crowded highway, a Las Vegas cab driver found $300,000 in cash hidden in the back seat of his vehicle. The driver, who was on his way home, discovered the money while driving through the city. The cash was hidden in a bag in the back seat of the cab. The driver turned the money over to the police, who are now investigating the source of the cash. The driver was not injured and is being treated as a witness.

The city council has approved a new plan that would allow city staff to also have concealed-carry rights. The plan is part of a larger effort to improve public safety in the city. The council voted 6-2 in favor of the plan. The plan would allow city staff to carry concealed firearms if they have completed the required training and have a valid permit. The plan is expected to take effect in the next few months.

United Way campaign hits 30 percent of goal

Dallas VA hospital refuses to accept 'Merry Christmas' cards

A woman holds a card that says "Merry Christmas" at a Dallas VA hospital. The hospital has refused to accept such cards, claiming they are not appropriate for the facility. The hospital is a Veterans Affairs medical center, and it is known for its strict policies regarding religious and political expressions. The hospital's refusal has caused controversy, with some people arguing that the cards are a simple way to show holiday cheer.

United Way's annual campaign has hit 30 percent of its goal. The campaign is a nationwide effort to raise money for various social service organizations. The goal is to raise $1 billion for the campaign. The campaign has been successful in many areas, but it still needs more support to reach its goal. The campaign is currently in its final stages, and it is hoped that more people will contribute in the coming weeks.

Kansas growers focus on cotton's potential
Kansas growers are focusing on the potential of cotton as a major crop. Cotton is a high-value crop that can provide a significant source of income for growers. Cotton is also a drought-tolerant crop, which makes it a good choice for growers in the semi-arid region of Kansas.
