

More boy, Trigger? No thanks. Boy, I'm stuffed!
College names People's Choice Awards Lawyers: Pa. high paper to resume Redskins ban

Manhunt intensifies for Mississippi bank robber suspected in cop's death

STILL MISSING! REWARDS $1,000 to $250,000 for info on

MONDAY DECEMBER 30, 2013

LEADER & TIMES
 Your daily news & news for 127 years

LOOKING FOR A PET?

Man thought to be victim of serial killer found alive

Robert Ramirez was last heard from in 1975, when he told his mother he was heading from New York to California.

His mother, who was 75 at the time, said she never saw him again. She said she was told by a friend that he had been seen in California in 1975, but she never saw him again.

Police in California are now searching for him, as they believe he may be the same man who was seen in California in 1975.

The Kismet home that has captured the prize honor of the annual Christmas Lighting Contest. It is, said the San Diego City of San Diego, the best of all homes ever judged and the Grand Open City stars in rank of all of them the best for the lighting of the contest. (City photo)

DOJ enters 'knockout game' fray with hate crime charge

The Justice Department has charged a man with a hate crime in the aftermath of a shooting in a gay bar in San Francisco. The man, 26, is accused of shooting and killing a man in the bar.

The man is accused of shooting and killing a man in the bar. The man is accused of shooting and killing a man in the bar. The man is accused of shooting and killing a man in the bar.

Robert Ramirez was last heard from in 1975, when he told his mother he was heading from New York to California.