

More boy, Trigger? No thanks. Boy, I'm stuffed!
College names People's Choice Awards Lawyers: Pa. high paper to resume Redskins ban

Manhunt intensifies for Mississippi bank robber suspected in cop's death

STILL MISSING! REWARDS $1,000 to $250,000 for info on

MONDAY DECEMBER 30, 2013
LEADER & TIMES
 Your daily news & news for 127 years

LOOKING FOR A PET?

Man thought to be victim of serial killer found alive

Robert Ramirez was last heard from in 1975, when he told his mother he was heading from New York to California.

His mother, who was 75 at the time, said she never saw him again. She said she was told by a friend that he had been found alive in a cave in California.

Police in California are now searching for Ramirez, who is believed to be the same man who was last seen in New York in 1975.

Ramirez was last seen in New York in 1975, when he told his mother he was heading from New York to California.

His mother, who was 75 at the time, said she never saw him again. She said she was told by a friend that he had been found alive in a cave in California.

Police in California are now searching for Ramirez, who is believed to be the same man who was last seen in New York in 1975.

The Kismet home that was decorated by the police department for the annual Christmas Lighting Contest. The red, blue, green, yellow & white lights are a mix of colors and styles. The house is in the center of the image.

DOJ enters 'knockout game' fray with hate crime charge

The Justice Department has filed a hate crime charge against a man accused of killing a gay man in a "knockout game" in New York City.

The man, 27, was charged with second-degree murder and hate crime. He is accused of attacking the victim in a "knockout game" in New York City.

The victim was a 21-year-old man who was killed in a "knockout game" in New York City. The man was charged with second-degree murder and hate crime.

The man, 27, was charged with second-degree murder and hate crime. He is accused of attacking the victim in a "knockout game" in New York City.

Robert Ramirez, who was last seen in New York in 1975, when he told his mother he was heading from New York to California.