

More boy, Trigger? No thanks. Boy, I'm stuffed!
College names People's Choice Awards Lawyers: Pa. high paper to resume Redskins ban

Manhunt intensifies for Mississippi bank robber suspected in cop's death

STILL MISSING! REWARDS $1,000 to $250,000 for info on

MONDAY DECEMBER 30, 2013
LEADER & TIMES
 Your daily news & more for 127 years

LOOKING FOR A PET?

Man thought to be victim of serial killer found alive

Robert Ramirez was last heard from in 1975, when he told his mother he was heading from New York to California.

His mother, Mrs. Rosa Ramirez, said she never saw him again. She said she was told by a friend that he had been seen in California in 1975, but she never saw him again.

Police in California are now searching for him, as they believe he may be the victim of a serial killer.

The Ramirez family had the assistance of the Green House of the World Christmas Lighting Center. The wife, Mrs. Rosa Ramirez, says a friend told her that her son was seen in California in 1975.

DOJ enters 'knockout game' fray with hate crime charge

The Justice Department has filed a hate crime charge against a man accused of a violent assault on a gay man in a Washington, D.C., bar.

The man, 27, is accused of striking the victim with a beer bottle, causing serious injuries. The victim is recovering in a hospital.

The charge is the first of its kind in the District of Columbia, where hate crime laws are relatively weak.

The man accused of the assault on the gay man in a Washington, D.C., bar. The man is accused of striking the victim with a beer bottle, causing serious injuries.