Obama set to announce 'practical' agenda focusing on immigration, income equality

President Barack Obama is expected to announce a new "practical" agenda focusing on immigration, income equality and other issues, according to a senior administration official. The official said the president will likely announce the agenda in the next few weeks, but declined to say exactly when. The agenda is expected to include measures to address the needs of the middle class, improve the economy, and reform the nation's education system. Obama is also expected to announce a new executive order on immigration, which would allow more young immigrants to stay in the United States and work legally.

$22,000 worth of eggs stolen in Puerto Rico
 A large quantity of eggs worth $22,000 was stolen from a farm in Puerto Rico, police said. The eggs were found to be contaminated with salmonella, and the farm is currently under investigation. The stolen eggs were found in a nearby area, and the police are looking for anyone who may have been involved in the theft.

Odd call: Blowing nose brings big buck running
 A man in Puerto Rico was startled by a large buck running through his yard after he blew his nose. The man, who was sitting on a bench, was startled when a large buck ran towards him. The buck was running quickly and was very close to the man. The man was able to get away, but the incident was quite unusual.
