Obama set to announce 'practical' agenda focusing on immigration, income equality

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Barack Obama is expected to announce a new set of policies aimed at addressing immigration, income inequality and other issues, according to a senior administration official. The official said the president will likely announce the policies in the next few weeks. The policies are expected to include changes to the way the federal government handles immigration, as well as new measures to help low-income families. Obama is also expected to announce a new set of policies aimed at addressing income inequality, including changes to the way the federal government handles tax policy. The official said the president will likely announce the policies in the next few weeks.
