Woody Allen's allies cast doubt on sexual abuse claims

By AP Wire

NEW YORK (AP) — Woody Allen's allies on Monday cast doubt on the sexual abuse claims of a woman who says she was sexually abused by the filmmaker in the 1970s.

The woman, who is now 40, says she was sexually abused by Allen when she was 13 years old. She says she was sexually abused by Allen for several years, from 1972 to 1977.

Allen's allies, including his lawyer and several friends, say the woman's claims are unfounded. They say she is a liar and that she is trying to ruin Allen's reputation.

Allen's lawyer, Michael Brown, says the woman's claims are "completely untrue." He says she is a "liar" and that she is "trying to ruin Woody's reputation."

Allen's friends, including Woody from Toy Story director John Musker and Woody from Toy Story director John Musker, also say the woman's claims are unfounded. They say she is a "liar" and that she is "trying to ruin Woody's reputation."

NEW YORK (AP) — Major Super Bowl ads on Monday were mostly tame, with no controversial content, according to a report from the National Advertising Review Council.

The council, which is made up of representatives from various advertising agencies and consumer groups, says the ads were "not objectionable" and "did not contain any content that would be considered offensive or inappropriate."

The council's report is based on a review of 10 Super Bowl ads, including those for Wendy's, Wendy's, Wendy's, Wendy's, Wendy's, Wendy's, Wendy's, Wendy's, Wendy's, Wendy's, and Wendy's.
