Bottle released by Mass. scientist in April 1956 found

The bottle was found in a cave in the Adirondack Park region of New York. The bottle is made of clear glass and has a label that reads "Adirondack Park". The bottle is believed to be a remnant of a scientific experiment conducted by a scientist in the 1950s. The bottle was found by a hiker in the park and was turned over to the park rangers. The rangers then contacted the state geologist, who identified the bottle as a remnant of a scientific experiment.
