Kan. Senate passes expanded school funding plan

State says 'NO' to

Building Common Core
By JENNIFER HANSEN
The Kansas State Senate has passed a bill that would expand the state's school funding plan to include a new category of schools called "common core" schools. The bill, which passed 34-12, would allow these schools to receive additional funding based on their performance on state tests. The bill also would allow these schools to opt out of the state's common core standards. The bill is expected to be signed into law by Governor Brown-Becker.
