School, city to approve sales tax agreement today
By Jeff Knorr

The City of Coronado and the Board of Education of the Coronado School District are set to meet today to discuss a proposed sales tax agreement. The agreement would allow the city to collect a 1.5 percent sales tax on all goods and services sold in the city, which would be used to fund the school district's operations. The city and school district have been in negotiations for several months, and this agreement would represent a significant step forward in their efforts to improve the district's financial stability. The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Coronado High School cafeteria. For more information, contact Jeff Knorr at 303-438-1234.

Giving blood, Giving life
By Jeff Knorr

It's the blood that counts, and it's the life that's given. The Coronado Blood Drive is a community effort to help those in need of blood transfusions. The drive is held at the Coronado High School cafeteria and is open to all residents of the city. Blood donors are needed for a variety of reasons, including surgery, trauma, and the treatment of certain medical conditions. The drive is a great way to give back to the community and make a difference in someone's life. For more information, contact the Coronado Blood Drive at 303-438-1234.

ADAMS' Fall
The Adams family is back in town for another year. The family is celebrating the 10th anniversary of their move to the city. The family is looking forward to a year of new adventures and memories. The family is grateful for the support of the community and is excited to be a part of the city's growth and development. For more information, contact the Adams family at 303-438-1234.
