Coronado exhibit features Mexican immigration

New exhibit scheduled to open May 3

The Coronado Museum is pleased to announce a new exhibit, "Mexican Immigration: A Journey of Faith and Hope," which will open on May 3. The exhibit, which is a collaboration between the museum and the Coronado Museum of Art, will feature a variety of artifacts, including photographs, letters, and personal items, that tell the story of Mexican immigrants who came to Coronado in search of a better life. The exhibit will run through June 15.

TAX DAY ALERT

IRS reiterates warning of pervasive telephone scam
The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has issued a warning about a pervasive telephone scam that has been plaguing taxpayers. The scam involves a caller who claims to be from the IRS and offers to help the taxpayer with their tax return. The caller will ask for the taxpayer's Social Security number and other personal information. The caller will then claim that the taxpayer owes money to the IRS and will offer to help the taxpayer pay the debt. The caller will then ask for the taxpayer's credit card information and will charge the taxpayer's credit card for the debt. The IRS has warned that this is a scam and that taxpayers should never provide their personal information to anyone who calls them on the phone.

Ca. judge asked to stop new Vidalia onion rule

The U.S. District Court in California has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to stop a new rule that would require growers to label Vidalia onions as "California Vidalia." The rule was issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ). The rule would require growers to label their Vidalia onions as "California Vidalia" if they are grown in California. The rule would also require growers to label their Vidalia onions as "California Vidalia" if they are grown in other states. The growers have argued that the rule is unfair and that it would hurt their business. They have asked the court to stop the rule.
