101 and counting: Linda Plett celebrates a lifetime of grit, good memories

Your daily news & news for 127 years

By Susan Fisher

The 101st birthday of Linda Plett is a milestone worth celebrating. She has lived through a century of change, from the Great Depression to the digital age. Her life is a testament to resilience and hard work.

Linda Plett was born on April 17, 1913, in Liberal, Kansas. She grew up in a family of farmers and ranchers. Her father, John Plett, was a well-known figure in the community. Linda spent her childhood on the family farm, where she learned the value of hard work and responsibility.

After completing high school, Linda worked as a secretary for several years. She then married and moved to Garden City, Kansas. There, she continued to work as a secretary and eventually became a homemaker. Her life has been filled with family, friends, and a deep sense of community.

Linda has a long history of volunteerism. She has served on numerous committees and boards, including the Garden City Chamber of Commerce and the Garden City Historical Society. Her dedication to her community is a source of pride for many.

In her spare time, Linda enjoys reading, gardening, and spending time with her family. She is a member of the Garden City Senior Center and the Garden City United Methodist Church. She is also an avid supporter of local sports teams.

Linda's life is a story of perseverance and achievement. She has overcome many challenges and has built a life of meaning and purpose. Her 101st birthday is a celebration of a life well-lived.
