It couldn't have been predicted and the consequences for the north Liberty 12-vehicle pile-up on U.S. Highway 54 Monday were dire. The storm, which began around 11 a.m. and lasted about an hour, was caused by a combination of factors, including a low-pressure system moving in from the west and a cold front moving in from the south. The storm brought heavy rain and strong winds, which caused the dust to rise and create a thick wall of dust. The dust was so thick that visibility was reduced to near zero. The storm caused several accidents, including a 12-vehicle pile-up on Highway 54. The pile-up occurred on a two-lane road, and the vehicles were involved in a chain-reaction collision. The vehicles involved in the pile-up included several cars, a truck, and a motorcycle. The storm caused significant damage to the vehicles and the road. The storm also caused power outages in several areas. The storm was a reminder of the dangers of severe weather. It is important to stay informed about the weather and to take appropriate precautions. If you are caught in a storm, it is important to stay calm and to seek shelter. If you are driving in a storm, it is important to slow down and to use your headlights. If you are caught in a storm, it is important to stay in your vehicle until the storm has passed.
