The Rockies jumped out to a 10-0 lead in the first inning and stopped a two-game skid to end the season with a 14-3 win over the Tigers.

Three games ago, the Rockies were poised to win the league, but a late rally from the Royals and coming up short to the Cardinals led to two one-run losses for the Rockies and knocked them out of contention for the league title.

But the Rockies were able to recover against the struggling Tigers who ended the season without a win after being a lead contender a season ago.

The final game of the season takes place tonight at Rosel Field between the Royals and the Cardinals.
